Edward Wilson (1813-1878), journalist and philanthropist, born in London on 3 November 1813, son of a linen merchant. A failed business venture dissipated his inheritance and savings and in August 1841 he sailed for Sydney to try sheep farming. He soon moved to Melbourne and became interested in politics, agriculture and newspapers. In 1848 he bought the 'Argus' for £300. He aired his political views through his paper and provided influential opposition to the La Trobe government. Wilson retired in 1855 and developed an interest in the introduction of European birds, fish and animals. In February 1861 he formed the Acclimatization Society as an offshoot of the Victorian Zoological Society and similar societies in the other colonies and throughout Victoria were founded through his influence and involvement. He continued to be active in public affairs until his death on 10 January 1878.

Sir James Arndell Youl (1811-1904), pastoralist, born on 28 December 1811 at Parramatta, New South Wales. In 1819 the family moved to Van Diemen's Land, before Youl went to study in England. Returning to Tasmania in 1827, Youl worked the Symmonds Plains property and began enlarging the pastoral interests left to him by his father. Youl immigrated to England in 1854, returning to Tasmania for a visit in 1860, the govenment appointed him their accredited agent in London the following year.

He was a commissioner for the London International Exhibition in 1862, honorary secretary and treasurer of the Australian Association. In 1868 he was a founder and vice-president of the Colonial Society (Royal Colonial Institute), London and from February 1888 to October the same year acted as agent-general for Tasmania, before his death in Clapham on 5 June 1904. Youl is famed for the introduction of trout and salmon to Australasian waters. In January 1874 the 'Norfolk' left England carrying 100,000 salmon and trout ova, delivering them to Tasmanian hatcheries on the River Plenty successfully for the first time. Youl was awarded a gold medal for salmon by the French Acclimatization Society in 1869.

Sir Samuel Wilson (1832-1895), pastoralist and politician, born at Ballycloughan, County Antrim, Ireland on 7 February 1832. Migrating to Victoria in 1852, he purchased Longerenong Station at the junction of the Wimmera River and Yarriambiack Creek where he created a system of dams and channels. By 1879 he held vast holdings of land in Victoria and New South Wales as well as leasing land in New South Wales and Queensland. Wilson established breeding ponds for English trout near Burrumbeet, and supported the work of the Acclimatisation Society by experimenting with ostrich farming and the breeding of angora goats. He represented the Wimmera in the Legislative Assembly in 1861-64 and the Western Province in the Legislative Council 1875-1881. In 1874 he gifted £30,000 to the University of Melbourne to build the gothic Wilson Hall. Knighted in 1875 he retired to England in 1881 and died in London on 11 June 1895.

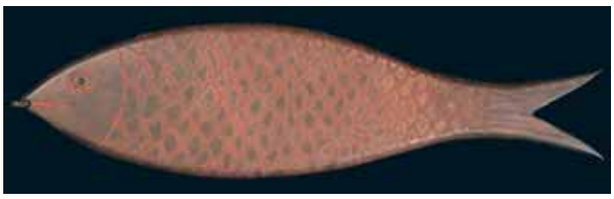
Alfred Gollin who was born at Liverpool in England on 29 May 1861 was a London businessman. He first came to Australia in 1899 and was a member of the firm of Gollin & Co, merchants and importers, established in Adelaide in the 1870s and moved to Melbourne in 1889. The firm also opened an office in London in 1902 and had a branch in Wellington, New Zealand. The directors of the company were five members of the Gollin family. The building site at 561-571 Bourke Street, Melbourne is a listed heritage location. On part of this site at 561-563 is the five-storey building constructed in 1902 in the Edwardian style for Gollin and Co as their offices and showroom.



In his lifetime Alfred travelled a million miles by sea and made at least thirty round trips between England and Australia. His first trip to Australia was made in 1899. During his time in Victoria, Mr Gollin, a keen sailor, was elected Commodore of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. In the season 1901-1902 he had outstanding success with his yacht 'Uira' winning the Royal Yacht Club of Victoria season trophy awarded to the most successful competitor. Towards the end of 1901 he travelled to England. On his return to Australia he said that he had received a hearty welcome as an 'Australian yachtsman' and was elected to that exclusive institution, the Royal Thames Yacht Club.

In about 1902-1903 Alfred Gollin purchased a large yacht called 'Sayonara'. Designed as a fast cruising yawl with high bulwarks and a graceful sheerline, the yacht originally was an instant success in the waters of Port Phillip. However the rug was pulled from under her original owner in 1898 when the various clubs made a decision to limit the size of yachts entering important races and regattas. This decision only affected Sayonara and one other competitor. After Mr Gollin purchased Sayonara he spent a considerable amount of money to make her race ready and then tried to stimulate interest in an intercolonial challenge with New South Wales (NSW) by issuing a challenge to the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron and the Royal Prince Alfred Yacht Club. At first there was no interest from NSW but finally the challenge was accepted by MR H.Binney of the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron. Mr Binney's Auckland designed and built yacht 'Bona' had the reputation of not been beaten. Alfred Gollin donated a trophy worth one hundred guineas for the three race series.

Gollin and his crew sailed Sayonara from her moorings at St Kilda to Sydney, taking thirteen days to arrive. The race series was held in January 1904 with Sayonara winning the first and last race thus securing victory over Buna and taking the trophy. Alfred Gollin then offered the cup as a perpetual trophy to be called, 'The Sayonara Perpetual Challenge Trophy' for competition between Victoria and NSW. Sayonara won the challenge again in 1907 and in 1909 and is regarded as a legend in yachting circles.

Conducted along similar lines to the America's Cup, the Sayonara Cup became the pinnacle of yacht racing in the first half of the 20th century. In 1950 the deed of gift was amended to allow a challenge from the Royal Yacht Club of Tasmania. The Sayonara Cup is still contested today although by a different class of boat.

After winning the Interstate Challenge, Alfred Gollin sold Sayonara and later returned to England. In August 1914 he joined the Metropolitan Special Constabulary in London. In October of the same year he was appointed to command Y Division. He resigned the command in 1919. For his services he was appointed MBE 1918, OBE 1919 and CBE 1920. A resident of Knightsbridge, he was a member of The Worshipful Company of Gardeners, Freeman of the City of London and Fellow of The Royal Institution.

He retired from all work in 1934 and it was reported in 31 December 1934 issue of the Brisbane newspaper, The Courier Mail, that Alfred Gollin was a passenger on the P&O liner, Maloja, making his thirtieth round trip to Australia.

Citation: George Watt Dempster - residing at 10 Kardima Road, Mosman. At about 9.30am on 19th October, 1939, Dempster was a passenger on the Sydney Ferries steamer "Kosciusko" from Clifton Gardens to Sydney. He saw a girl fall overboard from the Manly Ferry "Dee Why" on the passage from Manly to Sydney. A lifebelt was thrown to her, which she grasped, but as she appeared to be in difficulties Mr Dempster dived overboard, swam to the girl, and subsequently brought her to the ferry, where she was lifted on board.

The XXXX Halfpenny
A Unique Example of the Key Date

George V, 1923. Diagnostic die breaks both sides, four Xs scratched into the quarter points of the inner circle, otherwise brown and red, uncirculated and but for the Xs, would have been the finest we have handled.

This coin was collected by Karl Gunnar Strom, a native of the Swedish Island of Aland, who jumped ship in Sydney in February 1923. Being an illegal immigrant he headed up the coast to north Queensland with a fellow deserter intent on stowing away on a ship headed for the US. The pair went cane cutting but with the onset of the Depression Strom headed south in early 1930, eventually settling in Slacky Flat near Bulli.

The graffiti was done in all probability as acknowledgement of the Castlemaine Brewery Company adopting the (four) XXXX brand in 1924.

A request was made to Parramatta Council that a public meeting of ratepayers be called to further a project to give a testimonial to Mr W.J.Ferris in recognition of his services to the electorate. At a council meeting, the Mayor refused on the grounds that it was politically motivated. There was considerable discussion, arguments and finally commotion when Alderman Toohey, one of the signatories on the testimonial, refused to desist from his request that the public meeting be called. With transcript of the newspaper report on this incident.

Van Diemen's Land, letter dated 14 March 1849 from Roderick McDonald, in H.M. Gaol, Richmond, to Mr Young, Female Hiring Depot at Ross requesting that the recipient forward on his letter, in which he states he has been in prison for 16 weeks and is totally penniless and unable to pay the fine of ten pounds, together with a recommendation by Mr Young, the instigator of the charge against McDonald, that he be released from prison; also letter dated 20 March 1849 from said Mr Young to the Chief Police Magistrate, Hobart making such a recommendation for issuing an Order to Richmond Gaol for the release of Mr McDonald. Ragged edge on second letter where the page has been torn from a book, otherwise fine - very fine. (2 letters)

Roderick McDonald, born 1792, occupation Shepherd, was convicted at Inverness Court of Justiciary to 14 years for sheep stealing. He was transported on the Emily departing on 25 June 1842 and arriving at Van Diemen's Land on 24 November 1842. Mr McDonald was in Richmond Gaol as he was convicted for allowing a Prisoner of the Crown, obviously a female due to the connection with the Female Hiring Depot, to tipple (drink alcohol) at his house. After his release McGregor only lived for another two years dying in 1845 at the age of 53.

Van Diemen's Land, several items of correspondence from 1840s, mostly relating to policing matters in the Richmond District, noted one to Chief District Constable J.Bryon at Richmond from the District Constable of Jerusalem regarding stolen property and action to be taken, also noted several letters to Major C.Schaw (see footnote), Police Magistrate for Richmond, including a finely penned 2-page letter by Elizabeth Naylor regarding the circumstances of her eviction from premises at Pittwater by John Gwynn, various other letters. Mostly fine - very fine historic Tasmanian documents. (17)

Major Charles Schaw (1785-1874), served with the British Army in the West Indies, Peninsular War, American Wars, Honduras and then sent to Van Diemen's Land. He was appointed Assistant Police Magistrate administering the District of Bothwell for eight years. In 1841 he was promoted to full Police Magistrate of Richmond remaining in this position for fifteen years. With research.

1917
Van Diemen's Land, a 2-page letter to Major Schaw, Chief Police Magistrate, Richmond by William Gangell of Pittwater (see footnote), relating to the infidelity of his second wife Mary Gangell (nee Leigh), a convict transported for larceny with a life sentence, who had obtained a Ticket of Leave, and requesting assistance to curtail her scandalous behaviour of having an affair that was affecting him and their children, signed by William Gangell. Ink faded with age, otherwise fine and a rare and historic document written by the first man to be married in Tasmania.

William Gangell, a former Royal Marine, arrived in Australia on duty with the ship, HMS Calcutta, carrying free settlers and convicts. One of these free settlers was Ann Skelhorn whose husband had died on board ship and Gangell had been assigned to look out for her welfare and that of her 4 year old daughter. A relationship developed and they were married on 18 March 1804 at Sullivan Cove camp by Reverend Robert Knopwood and with Lt Governor David Collins in attendance. This was the first marriage in the new settlement at Sullivans Cove, later Hobarton and then Hobart Town, and is recorded as the first marriage in Tasmania.

They had four children together as well as Ann's young daughter. When Ann died at the age of 39, Mary Leigh was indentured to Gangell as a convict/servant. She was 20 and he was 40 but they developed a relationship, were married on 25 January 1819 and had 11 children. The marriage was a difficult one and on two occasions Mary absconded and was committed to prison for three months on each occasion.

Mary's records in England state that she was of 'bad' character and was sentenced to death. However, her sentence was remitted to transportation 'for the term of her natural life'. It appears from the above letter that she had reverted to her 'bad' character and deserted her husband and their large family.

Research indicates that Mary Gangell was granted a Ticket of Leave in 1845 but in William's letter dated November 17, 1843 he states, 'I have to inform you that my wife Mary Gangell has obtained a Ticket of Leave'.

Great Britain - France, WWI canteen vouchers, 11th Royal Fusiliers, ten centimes (4), twenty centimes (6), fifty centimes (4) and one franc, all from the same booklet (originally for five francs value) and numbered 07881 apart from a 10c and 50c (numbered 07994). Extremely fine and rare. (15 vouchers + 5 franc booklet cover)

These vouchers were introduced to counteract the difficulty in obtaining small change for the French five franc note with which the men of the battalion were paid, neither the shop keepers nor the canteens had anything like enough change available and, consequently, the men were unable to buy what they wanted. Books of vouchers were devised and printed in England and sent to the Battalion Headquarters where they were issued to the troops in exchange for their five franc notes. They were effective and popular, so much so, that they were used, not only by the 11th (Service) Battalion (RF) but by others in the same Division. They were freely accepted in payment by the village shop keepers who brought their vouchers to the Battalion HQ once a week and received payment.

B.Winsor located this second note and the presentation letter in Western Australia per Joel Jeffrey.

William Noah Hedges, originally baptised Noah William Hedges, was born in Hertfordshire, England on 16 July 1856. In 1878 he migrated to Australia where he worked as a contractor in stone quarries. Later he contracted as a builder and building repairer in Mount Barker, South Australia where he served on the Mount Barker District Council and Road Board. On 4 April 1884 he married Elizabeth Paterson at Wistow and they had three sons and three daughters. After several years of building wharves and other works for railways and ports he moved to Western Australia in 1893 where he once again was involved in public works before acquiring a large share in a timber and firewood company of which he became managing director. He also acquired farming properties including Koolberrin near Narembeen and a farm in South Australia near Lake Alexandrina.

In 1897 Hedges constructed the Karalee rock catchment and reservoir. This was the fourth largest of the railway catchment reservoirs and was used by the goldfields steam trains between Southern Cross and Coolgardie. It held 48.3 million litres of water in an earth dam and was used by steam locomotives until 1953 when diesel locomotives were introduced. In 1999 this area was vested in the National Trust (WA) and is an attraction for visitors, picnickers and campers.

Also, there is a railway siding named Hedges Siding. Located on the cross country line from Merredin to Narrogin via Kondinin, situated between Narembeen and South Kumminin it was originally called Koolberrin after Hedges farm a few miles west of the railway line. This farm was about 22,000 acres at its peak. As well as producing wheat and running sheep, Hedges also used the farm to produce chaff for feeding his horses used on the WA Goldfields Firewood Supply Company woodline.

In 1904 Hedges made an unsuccessful attempt to enter parliament contesting the Legislative Assembly seat of Yilgarn running as a Ministerial Party candidate. This loss did not deter him and in 1906 running as a candidate for the Western Australian Party he won the seat of Fremantle in the House of Representatives. He retained this seat in 1910 as a representative of the newly formed Commonwealth Liberal Party but lost it in 1913 to Labor's Reginald Burchell. There is a printed version of one of his speeches made during parliamentary debates on 21 November 1912 on the subject of supply (Kalgoorlie to Port Augusta Railway). It was published in book format by the Government Printer, Melbourne. Following the death of John Forrest in 1918 Hedges made two unsuccessful attempts in 1918 and again in 1919 to win Forrest's federal seat of Swan as a Nationalist candidate. When Burchell retired in 1922 Hedges tried to regain the seat of Fremantle that he had held until 1913 but failed. In that same year his wife died. Thereafter he began to commute regularly to South Australia and Victoria. In 1922 Hedges authored a book titled, 'A practical scheme for land settlement in Western Australia' which was published by R S Sampson in Perth. In 1923 he built the homestead, Highland Valley, in the southwest of Western Australia. The property unique in its style was the hub of the 4,916 hectare property with extensive landscaping and gardens and one of the finest lawn tennis courts in the southwest. Hedges was appointed President of the Western Australian Employers Federation in 1929 and at one time was also President of the Central Council of Employers of Australia. William Noah Hedges died in a private hospital in Claremont on 21 November 1935 and is buried at Karrakatta Cemetery. Representatives of almost every commercial, professional and administrative activity including many prominent political figures in Western Australia attended his funeral.

The first five hundred ten shillings notes were set aside for Federal members of parliament in what Greg McDonald's catalogue (22nd Ed p400) refers to as the 'A' list. As federal member for Fremantle, William Hedges applied for and paid for his note. Note numbers M000054 and M000055 were issued to him together with an accompanying letter from one of the note signatories, George T.Allen, who was Secretary to the Treasury.

for the Hay Internment Camp Notes

World War II, Internment Camp Hay, Camp Seven Bank, uniface printer's proof or colour trial of the front of the two shillings, signed by R. Stahl but without date top line of legend, left signature or serials, colour blue (as on the sixpence). Uniface printer's colour trial in scarlet of the front of the note, signed by R. Stahl but without any overprinting. Uniface artist's ink drawings in scarlet, pink and black of the front and back of suggested two shillings design (very close to the final version) except date is 6th March 1941, and the controller is 'Dr. Hardegg' on left, Manager R. Stahl and uncertain on right, serial number B10001, also ink drawing cut to shape of suggestions for the shield, one of a ram (as adopted) the other a row of three huts with 7 top and bottom. Original large drawing in pencil on tracing paper for the centre of the two shillings note, original instructions to the printer in pencil on thin cardboard signed in ink 'George Teltscher 1941'. Printer's proofs of overprint on front and back of two shillings on art paper. An original carbon type written copy of the AMF Eastern Command letter discusing withdrawal of the notes (received 16/4/41) and a photo of the camp taken in 1940. First two items mounted to a support card, otherwise uncirculated and both probably unique, others very fine - extremely fine and a unique lot. (12)

Nero Claudius Drusus was the second son of Livia by her first husband, Tiberius Claudius Nero. He was brought up in the household of Augustus, who took note of his abilities and fast-tracked his advancement in military and civil affairs. In 16 BC he was married to Antonia, daughter of Mark Antony and Octavia, and the happy union produced two sons, Germanicus and the future emperor Claudius. In 12 BC, Augustus gave him command of the planned conquest of Germany, which he seemed to have achieved in four skilfully waged campaigns over the next three years. His letters written during this time (later excerpted by Suetonius) indicated he hoped for a restoration of the Republic, an attitude which might have strained relations with Augustus. But Drusus never returned to Rome, for a serious equestrian accident in Germany led to an infection which claimed his life in the summer of 9 BC. Despite his Republican leanings, his brother Tiberius and son Claudius both became Roman emperors, the latter of whom struck this coin honoring his illustrious father.

Originally attributed to the Macedonian city of Aigai, this series was re-evaluated by O. Picard ("Les monnaies au bouc attribu es Aigai," BSFN 50/6, 1995) and C. Lorber (see above), who have convincingly shown that, based on linguistic and iconographic evidence, Aigai cannot possibly be correct. Lorber also re-evaluated the numismatic and historical evidence, and synthesized her findings with metrological, iconographic, and hoard data to conclude that these coins were actually tribal issues emanating from an area west or southwest of Bisaltia, probably inhabited by the Mygdones or Krestones. Pyrrhos' rule over the western portion of Macedon had become onerous to the population, and they called on Lysimachos for help. Lysimachos, a long time friend of the Macedonians, easily occupied the area and incorporated it into his growing kingdom. The historical mint in this region, Pella, was quickly converted to produce Lysimachos type coinage, and subsequently produced a significantly large output of both staters and tetradrachms. It remained a loyal subject until Lysimachos' death.

Ex Gorny & Mosch, Munich, Auction 159, October 8, 2007 (lot 82).

The city of Mende, located on the Pallene Peninsula on the eastern shore of the Thermaic Gulf was, according to Thucydides (4.123.1), founded by Eretria in the 8th century. It later founded colonies of its own: Neapolis on the eastern coast of Pallene, and Eion at the mouth of the river Strymon near Amphipolis. Mende's wealth is indicated by the high amounts of tribute paid to the Delian Confederacy: eight talents until 451-450 BC, and then amounts ranging form five to nine talents after 438-437 BC. During the Peloponnesian War (431-404 BC) Mende originally sided with Athens, but then, on the urging of the oligarchs, went over to the Spartan general Brasidas. It eventually returned to the Athenian side, but is not mentioned in connection with the Peace of Nicias. From 415-414 BC Mende again appears in the Athenian Tribute Lists, but by the fourth century the city was only minting copper coins.

Originally founded during the Peloponnesian Wars in 432/1 BC the Chalkidian league was a defensive coalition of cities. It adopted a progressive constitution on the initiative of its leading state, Olynthos. The league was predominantly a federal state with sovereign powers and a federal coinage and adopted Apollo and the lyre as its symbols. The League became very powerful in the 4th century and won control of certain cities from the weaker Macedonian kings such as Amyntas III. The League dissolved when its principal city fell to Philip II in 348 B.C. The power of the league is reflected in its coinage, which was the most important in the Macedonian area during the first half of the 4th century BC. The modern excavations of the site are particularly important both for the history of a Greek city planning and the coin finds that are vital for the chronology of many issues of the 4th century B.C. Robinson and Clement note for this Group H, two obverse dies and five reverse dies for 10 specimens known. This example comes with a new reverse die. The obverse has a fine head of Apollo and an excellent example of late 5th century B.C. die cutting.

Ex Geoff St. Clair Collection.

Vercingetorix, c.82 BC - 46 BC) was the chieftain of the Arverni tribe, who united the Gauls in an ultimately unsuccessful revolt against Roman forces during the last phase of Julius Caesar's Gallic Wars. He came to power in 52 BC, when he raised an army and was proclaimed king at Gergovia. He soon established an alliance with other tribes and took control of their combined armies, leading them in Gaul's most significant revolt against Roman power. Vercingetorix surrendered to the Romans after being defeated at the Battle of Alesia in 52 BC, after which he was imprisoned for five years. In 46 he was paraded through Rome as part of Caesar's triumph before being executed. Vercingetorix is primarily known through Caesar's Commentarii de Bello Gallico.

Described by Sear as a dupondius. In 27 B.C. the emperor conferred on this colony of southern Gaul the title of Colonia Augusta Nemausus and the initial issue with the heads of Augustus and Agrippa. It is dated by RPC to this time. The omission of the title Augustus on the obverse legend suggests a slightly earlier date. The issue went through several revivals over the next four decades with minor changes. The reverse type commemorates the conquest of Egypt in 30 B.C.

A major battle in the War of Spanish Succession, The Battle of Blenheim (also known as the Second Battle of Hochstadt) saw the decisive defeat of the forces of France and the Electorate of Bavaria by the allied powers of England, Denmark, the Dutch Republic, and the Holy Roman Empire. The two leading commanders of the latter's forces were England's John Churchill, the Duke of Marlborough, and the Holy Roman Empire's Prince Eugene of Savoy, both astute in their tactical approach. Through their combined efforts, they saved the Habsburg Empire, and the Grand Alliance as a whole, from collapse. Following the battle, the Duke was greatly rewarded by Anne, receiving Blenheim Palace as a gift from his grateful nation. This home later served as the birthplace and ancestral home of future Prime Minister, Winston Churchill. Having become close friends during the battle, the two strategists joined forces once again in another important battle between the same two forces at the Battle of Malplaquet, also a victory for the allied forces.

Together with framed coloured caricature of Marcel Nagy carrying wads of bank notes and a bag of money to the bank; a framed b&w photo of Marcel Nagy at the football in Sydney; various documents and newspaper clippings, several of these in Hungarian, some with English translation. Included are important references, including a glowing report from the Hungarian Football Federation, and offers of important football management positions as well as documents relating to the establishment of Soccer World magazine.

Upon Marcel Nagy's death a warm tribute was published in Soccer World, Vol 15, No 1, 21 January 1972. Under the banner, 'Soccer Pioneer Dies in Sydney', it stated as follows,

'It is with extreme sadness that we announce the death of Marcel Nagy, one of the founders of "Soccer World". He died on December 24, at the age of 79, in Sydney Hospital.

He came to Australia in 1957, after an illustrious sporting career in his native Hungary. For some 35 years, he was one of Hungary's leading soccer administrators. In 1957, immediately after the Revolution, he became president. However, a few months later he left Budapest to join his daughter in Sydney.

Marcel Nagy played a major part in the spectacular development of European soccer between the two world wars. A close friend of Austria's Hugo Meisl, he was instrumental in the formation of the Mitropa Cup, forerunner of all of today's great European cup events. For years he was a member of FIFA executive and attended World Cups and Olympics. After the last war it was Marcel Nagy who introduced Football Pools in Hungary.

Soon after his arrival in Sydney, he and a few friends decided to start a soccer weekly - "Soccer World". Since then several publications have started and folded up - "Soccer World", however, has been publishing without interruption ever since, now starting its 15th year. During all these years Marcel Nagy was Chairman of Soccer World Publishing Co as well as the newspaper's Business Manager.

His inestimable contribution to the establishment of soccer in Australia was widely acknowledged. Some years ago he was invited to join the NSW Management Committee while the St George Budapest Club elected him Life President.'

Marcel Nagy was the father of Marta Daniel who, with her husband, operated a well known and respected coin and stamp shop in Sydney City under the name of Martin Daniel. When her husband died Marta continued trading for many more years until she sold her business, then located in the Royal Arcade, and retired.

Sir Percy Claude Spender, KCVO, KBE, QC, (5 October 1897 - 3 May 1985), was an Australian politician, diplomat and jurist. He was made a King's Counsel in 1935 and entered politics at the 1937 election when he was elected to the House of Representatives as member for Warringah. He ran as an independent, defeating the sitting member, Sir Archdale Parkhill. Soon after his election, he joined the government party, the United Australia Party, and held the seat until his resignation from federal politics in 1951. From 1944 was a member of the Liberal Party. He held a number of ministries in Robert Menzies' wartime government. He was Minister without portfolio assisting the Treasurer from April-November 1939, Vice-President of the Executive Council from January-March 1940, then Treasurer until October 1940 and then Minister for the Army until the fall of Arthur Fadden's government in October 1941. He was also a member of the Economic Cabinet (1939-1940), War Cabinet (1939-1941) and the Advisory War Council (1940-1945). With Menzies' return to power in 1949, Spender was made Minister for External Affairs (19 December 1949 - 26 April 1951) and Minister for External Territories. Spender's greatest influence on Australian politics occurred during this period. He led Australian delegations to the British Commonwealth Conference in Colombo, Ceylon and to the Fifth Session of the United Nations General Assembly (of which he was the Vice-President). At the conference in Colombo, Spender was instrumental in the development of the Colombo Plan (which had originally been known as the Spender Plan). He also played a large part in the signing of the ANZUS Pact and the Treaty of San Francisco (Japanese Peace Treaty in 1951). He was more akin to the realist tradition of Australian foreign politics linked to former Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies. On leaving politics, he was appointed Australia's Ambassador to the United States (1951-58) and later was the first Australian appointed to the International Court of Justice in The Hague (1958-1964) becoming the Court's President 1964-67. He died in May 1985, aged 87. He was also awarded many honours during his life.

The Australian Flying Corps (AFC) made its first operational flight of WWI on 27 May 1915 and by 1917 it had four operational squadrons. Now, the training of airmen at the Central Flying School, at Point Cook was unable to keep up with demand for trained men. Accordingly, four training squadrons were established in the United Kingdom in 1917. One of these, 32 (Australian Training) Squadron, RFC was formed on 24 October 1917 at Yatesbury In January 1918 it was renamed 7 Squadron AFC and relocated to Leighterton on 23 February 1918 operating there until disbanded in March 1919. This training squadron was tasked with preparing personnel for service with 69 (Australian) Squadron, RFC and then 3 Squadron AFC, operating with British Forces along the Western Front.

It is at the training school that the photos above show a large number of Australian planes, all identified by a kangaroo and clearly numbered on the tail. There is a particular focus on the crashes of these planes and it is here where this collection has a graphic insight to many of our Australian and Allied pilots who died whilst in training.

Edwin Perry, ap (apprentice), 5 March (1862) at the harbour Auckland accidentally fell overboard. Mr Horn jumped overboard to his relief and rescued him with the assistance of Howie, who also jumped into the sea.

A Bronze Medal was awarded to Horn and Howie received a Testimonial of Thanks on vellum.

Together with written account of service of the Naval Brigade in the New Zealand Wars including ships Victoria and Fawn; printed copies of Despatches on New Zealand War for 1859-60 (2 different), 1860-1 (2 different); photocopies of considerable correspondence dating from 1858 to 1861 and clearly written transcripts of same relating to an accident and the aftermath thereof that affected William Horn after he fell from the bridge of HMCS Victoria in 1858 while in Melbourne.

William Horn was born on 11Mar1840. Some of his posting entries from Colonial Ship Victoria include as 2nd Master from 03Jun1861 on ships, Fawn, Cumberland, Medusa, Ranger, Fisgard, Skylark, as Master from 25Jul1866 on ships, Asia, Rinaldo, as Navigator Lieutenant from 02May1868 on ships, Enterprise, Pembroke, Asia and Raleigh; Retired 26May1881 with rank of Staff Commander.

On 28Dec1858 the District Surgeon at Williamstown, Vic, reported on the condition of Horn after he fell from the bridge of HMCS Victoria whilst in the performance of his duties. At the time, Victoria had been annexed to the Police Dept Melbourne and Horn was employed as a Water Constable. He had served on board with satisfaction from Nov1855 until the accident. There is a series of letters relating to his difficulty in continuing his employment with the Water Police and obtaining a suitable alternate position with the government.

During his service in the New Zealand Wars, it is written that in what was reported to be the largest force ever assembled in New Zealand, General Pratt led 1,500 men on an armed reconnaissance on 10 September 1860 towards Huirangi. This force included the Naval Brigade and one of these companies was commanded by Midshipman William Horn of the Victoria.

In a letter dated 29Jan1861 by Commodore M. Beauchamp Seymour to His Excellency Sir Henry Barkly K.C.B., Governor of Victoria, in part reads - 'when engaged with the enemy near Kairase on the 29th Decr... The conduct of Lieutenant G.S. Woods on that day & all others while under my command has been exactly what was to have been expected from an Officer of his zeal and intelligence, & I beg to recommend him & Mr. William Horn, Mate of the "Victoria" to the favourable consideration of your Excellency's Government.'

Another letter from Commander Norman of HMCS Victoria to the Chief Secretary of Victoria recommended Horn for promotion to rank of Mate. This was approved on 04Mar1861 back dated to 06Jul1860. On 18Apr1861 Captain Norman further stated, 'Lieut. Woods and Mr Horn served with much credit on shore whilst attached to the Naval Brigade.'

Order of the Nile 2nd Class: LG 29/12/1916, p12655 to Rear Admiral Henry Russell Robinson, Director-General of Ports and Lights, Ministry of Finance, Cairo. KCMG: LG 23/2/1917, p1877 to Rear Admiral Henry Russell Robinson (retired), Director-General of the Egyptian Ports and Lights Administration; in recognition of his services during the war.

MID: Despatch of 21Jun1916 by C-in-C Egypt.

Henry Russell Robinson was born in Birmingham on 28 April 1856. On 15 July 1870 he joined the Royal Navy as a Cadet and was posted aboard HMS Britannia. By 1872 he was commissioned as a Midshipman after serving on HMS Ariadne, Adelaide and Niobe. During the Zulu Wars he served as a Sub Lieutenant on HMS Orontes which transported to France the body of the Prince Imperial killed in the war and also carried the heroic survivors of Rorke's Drift and their return to England.

He was promoted to Lieutenant at age 26 and completed his Naval Certificate in Pilotage as well as other courses of study that saw him progress to be Commander of HMS Galatea in 1894. He provided ship service during the China War and in the Boer War, when he was commander of HMS Majestic and HMS Indus, although he did not qualify for service medals. In 1902 he accepted the post of Assistant Manager in the Royal West India Mail Company. In 1904 he was involved with and commended for the refit of Antarctic ships for Captain Scott's Polar Expedition.

Following this he entered an important period of colonial service where he was responsible for the training of Australian and New Zealand naval men as part of a Naval Agreement Scheme. For this he was specially commended by Admiral Fanshaw, the Commander-in-Chief for Australia, for his services which included time on HMS Tauranga and HMS Phoebe, part of the Royal Navy Australian Auxiliary Squadron, and during this time he rendered special assistance in establishing the Australasian Royal Naval Reserve, New Zealand Branch.

In 1907 he accepted the position of Director General of Egyptian Ports and Lighthouses, a position for which he was decorated as abovementioned. Henry Russell Robinson KCMG died in 1942.

OBE (Mil): Edinburgh Gazette 6/6/1924, Issue 14029, p766 to Captain Percy Kenneth Boulnois, MC, Royal Engineers, on the occasion of His Majesty's Birthday.

MC: Edinburgh Gazette 11/12/1919, Issue 13536, p3948 to Capt. (A./Maj) Percy Kenneth Boulnois, 54th Fd. Coy., R.E. (ITALY)

Citation: During the bridging operations of 26th October to 28th October, 1918, at Salettuol he rendered extremely valuable services under difficult and dangerous circumstances. Under hostile shelling and bombing he showed a fine disregard of danger, and set a splendid example to his men. It was largely owing to personal example that the operation was a success, and he showed great skill in organising the work under very difficult circumstances.

Note: During the Battle of Vittorio Veneto, October-November 1918,the Royal Engineers, with the help of Italian engineers, built a pontoon bridge over the Piave River at Salettuol.

Percy Kenneth Boulnois was born on 12 February 1889 at Southsea, Hampshire, England. In 1903 he entered Wellington College, excelling academically, won the Wellesley Exhibition and passed first into the Royal Military Academy Woolwich. He was commissioned into the Corps of Royal Engineers in 1907 and due to his love of horses applied for a posting to a Field Company resulting in a position with 57th Company at Bulford on the Salisbury Plain in Wiltshire where he could hunt regularly on horseback. Percy was also a keen oarsman, rowing for the Royal Engineers at Henley in 1910 and 1911.

In WWI he served with his company in the opening campaign from Mons through to the first Battle of Ypres. After being invalided home in August 1915 and upon recuperation he went to RMA Woolwich as Instructor and Company Commander. In June 1917 he returned to the battle front when he was appointed to command the 54th Field Company in Italy where he was awarded the Military Cross and Mentioned in Despatches for his conduct during the operation of bridging the Piave River in October 1918.

Post war he worked as a survey specialist after a special course at Chatham and served on the German-Polish and Danzig Boundary Commission and following on was head of the Danzig Free State and Corridor Commission. He then proceeded to Africa for the delimitation of the frontier between French Equatorial Africa and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. A feature of this commission being that it was one of the first on which wireless was used for the determination of longitude and Percy Boulnois made a valuable contribution to the practical side of this process even preparing a paper on the subject in 1924. His work on this commission earned him an OBE (Mil).

After returning from Africa, he joined the Geographical Section General Staff at the War Office and as Liaison Officer with the Air Ministry was responsible for the early work in developing air charts. In 1927 he was appointed Chief Instructor at the Royal School of Military Survey, Chatham and in 1935 assumed command of the Geographical Section General Staff, later known as the Directorate of Military Survey. He was responsible for the preparation of mapping required in the event of war, a prospect which at the time was looming ever larger. He also reorganized the R.E. Survey Service thus laying the foundation for the large development of military survey during WWII.

In 1941 Colonel Boulnois was appointed Deputy Director Prisoners of War. He later joined the Petroleum Warfare Department, being sent to South Africa and then to Washington, USA with the Geoffrey Lloyd Mission. In August 1943, after joining the Civil Affairs Staff centre, he was appointed Military Governor of Sardinia. Post war he was the first Chairman of the Field Survey Association. After retiring from the Army he became Chairman and Managing Director of the St Bride's Press, the proprietors of 'The Surveyor and Municipal and County Engineer', a position that his father had held many years earlier. Colonel Percy Kenneth Boulnois OBE, MC, passed away suddenly at his home on 8 February 1952. His funeral, attended by a large contingent of high ranking military personnel, was held on 12 February at Golders Green Crematorium, London, one of the oldest crematoriums in Britain.

During the Defence of Greece, the 2/1st and other units were ordered to defend the airstrip at Rethymnon/Retimco and after fierce fighting and being cut off from supply lines, the force was out of supplies and ammunition. At the end of May 1941 Lt Col Campbell, the Commanding Officer, made the decision to surrender and about 450 men were marched into German POW camps for the next four years. Unfortunately for the citizens of the Cretan city of Rythymnon who had been helping the allies with food, the Germans selected 30 men and boys, made them dig their own graves and then shot them.

DSO: LG 8/11/1915, p11027, posn 5; CAG 27/1/1916, p157, posn 50.

Recommendation: 2nd/3rd May, his command suffered severe losses, and it was largely owing to his personal influence that the ground was held. On the morning of the 3rd May, the line being seriously shaken by artillery fire, a very critical moment had arrived, and I believe it to be entirely due to Major Tilney's exertions, who, by fearlessly exposing himself, although himself wounded, succeeded in rallying his men, and so averted what might have been turned into a disaster.

Since then Major Tilney has acted as Second in Command at Quinn's Post, until relieved on June 1st, and has actively participated in all the offensive and defensive operations of that post, during the whole period, and where he rendered particularly conspicuous service on the night of the 19/20th May during the attack by the enemy on our lines.

Recommendation for DCM - awarded MM: At Pozieres, France, during the period 23/25th July, 1916, L/Cpl. Oakes displayed great courage during the operations. During the heavy shelling on our position by the enemy, his action assisted materially in keeping the men, who were greatly fatigued, together. There is no doubt the courage displayed by this N.C.O. helped in a great measure to hold our captured position.

Also recommended for Russian Cross of St George 4th Class. File states 'Recommended by Brigade for the same 28-7-1916 no immediate reward given.' Note that this recommendation has Oakes' name incorrectly written as James Samuel Oakes, however it is obviously the same man as his service number, rank and unit are the same and the date and place of the recommended action is identical.

Father: John Shaw Oakes, miner, age 40, born at Paris of Tamone in County of Wexford; Enl.11Sep1863 at Otago, NZ; Disch.20Feb1865; 12Aug1876 wrote a letter from 37 Princess St, Sydney, NSW requesting issue of his New Zealand War Medal; he wrote again later from 107 Botany St, Surry Hills, Sydney; he finally acknowledged receipt of his medal, dated at Newcastle, NSW, 26 Sep1876.

William Hammond Coleman was born 15Apr1855 at Sofala, NSW, the son of a gold digger, and baptised in the Western Goldfields in the County of Wellington, NSW. He enlisted in the NSW Artillery in 1876 at the age of 21. In a statement made in 1906 recommending him for promotion, it was stated that Coleman had joined the regiment in 1876 attaining the rank of Battery Sergeant Major in 1883. In addition to Artillery work he rendered valuable service in connection with Equitation and Light Horse Schools, Staff Rides, Camps and other duties. He had a complete knowledge of Horse and Field Artillery work, both theoretical and practical, and was a first rate instructor and excellent horsemaster. He saw active service in the Soudan as Battery Sergeant Major in 1885 and likewise in South Africa in 1900-01 acting as Section Commander for about three months on column duty. On the return trip from South Africa he was Ship's Sergeant Major on the 'Harlech Castle' and was highly commended by the O.C. Ship, Colonel Antill.

Unfortunately his recommendation for promotion to Warrant Officer was not able to be effected because there was no vacancy for such rank in RAA of N.S.Wales. BSM William Coleman, known as 'Stripey', continued in his role as Battery Sergeant Major for many years right up until the Great War. He raised the Australian flag at Canberra on its naming ceremony on 12 March 1913.

It is of interest to know that during service in South Africa the casualties among horses was very great, particularly in non-regular units where the men were less experienced in caring for horses. However, in the Battery, the only horse to survive the war was that of BSM 'Stripey' Coleman.

William Hammond Coleman died on 27Aug1942 at the age of 87 and was buried at the Church of England Cemetery, Waverley, Sydney, NSW.

Leslie Herbert Kyngdon was born on 10Jul1860 at Exeter, Somerset, England, the son of a medical doctor. His family emigrated to Sydney in 1878. On 30Jun1880 he was commissioned as a Lieutenant in the New South Wales Volunteer Forces being promoted to Lieutenant in 1881 and Captain in 1884. During his service in Soudan in 1885 he served as Captain commanding D Coy NSW Infy Bn and participated in the advance on Tamai. On 12Nov1885 he transferred to the permanent forces, NSW Artillery, as Lieutenant with promotion to Captain in 1891. In 1896 he was on 6-months detachment to the Royal Artillery in England and upon his return he was appointed Adjutant, 2nd Garrison Division.

He was released for service in South Africa as a Special Service Officer with the Royal Artillery from January to December 1900 and then served in Cape Colony and the Orange River Colony. On his return he served in 1902-5 as Staff Officer in Queensland, Western Australia and NSW being promoted to Major in February 1905. He then held the following positions - Commander of Thursday Island in 1906-8; Company Officer in RAA NSW 1908-9; Commander RAA (Coastal Defences) in Queensland then Victoria and finally NSW in 1912-16 being promoted to Lt Colonel in November 1910; promoted Colonel in April 1916; Inspector of Coastal Defences until June 1919 when he became temporary Chief of Ordnance; placed on Retired List in November 1919 with honorary rank of Brigadier General.

Much respected by all who met him, Kyngdon was nicknamed 'Gruffy'. In his biography there is mention of his pet dog, a bitch named Nettle. The dog would sleep at the entrance to the officers' mess until the last officer arrived home and then go and wake up her master who would note the time. The next morning Kyngdon would seek out the tiredest looking of his officers and ask why he had stayed out so late the night before. He never married and after retirement lived at the Athenaeum Club, Melbourne until his death on 11Apr1923 at Mount St Evins Hospital, Fitzroy. He was buried at Brighton Cemetery.

Captain Francis Hixson was appointed commander of the Australian Naval Contingent which left New South Wales for the China campaign on the Troopship Salamis. During the voyage he delivered the document to Captain Connor that appointed him as Commander of the New South Wales Naval Contingent. Because Captain Hixson was actually too old for active service and Connor had not seen active service for twenty years, when the ship reached Hong Kong, Hixson handed over command of the contingent to Captain Gillespie RN with Captain Connor as second in command.

Edward Richard Connor was born in Kent, England in 1848, the son of Alexander Connor, a master mariner, and was educated in Greenwich School. He joined the Royal Navy on 12 March 1861 as a Master's Assistant on HMS Cossack. He went on to serve on Gorgan (May 1862), Fisgard (February 1864), Royal Adelaide (November 1864), Firefly (December 1864) and Hibernia (February 1866) with a promotion to 2nd Master on 28 March 1866. His service continued on Nassau (April 1866). In 1867 he was appointed Navigating Sub Lieutenant with seniority back dated to his appointment as 2nd Master. He served on Clio (August 1869), Fisgard (November 1869) and Pembroke (March 1870). On 22 September 1872 he was appointed Navigating Lieutenant and in the same year he married Adelaide, the daughter of the late Mr. Arthur Wilcox Manning, former Principal Under-Secretary in Queensland.

During his service from 1864 to 1879 Connor was in the Hydrographic Service and was engaged surveying in the Channel, in the Mediterranean in the Straits of Magellan, and off the Queensland coast on board Clio and then Pearl. He had two years' detached service on the east coast of Africa in suppressing the slave trade; and was severely wounded in an engagement at Tierra del Fuego. After this he served for two years with the Royal Chartered British North Borneo Company and had command of the Governor's armed yacht. He retired from the navy in 1881.

In the 1880s Connor emigrated to Australia and in 1885 he joined the N.S.W. Naval Brigade as a Lieutenant. He was appointed a commander in 1891. In 1900 he left from Sydney for China with the Australian Contingent being second in command. For his service he was appointed CMG and earned the respect of his men and all who served with him. On 2 January 1903 Edward Connor died peacefully in his bed at his residence, Cook-street, Glebe Point, Sydney, NSW.

Together with research including copies of various photos, appointments and awards as well as coloured photo of his grave that is marked, 'Sacred to the Memory/of/Captain E.R.Connor/(R.N) CMG/Who died on the 2nd Jan 1903/Aged 58 years/Erected by Members of the New South Wales/Naval Brigade and His Comrades of the Naval/Contingent who served in China 1900-1901.'

Awarded to Sgt R W Jane, serving with 105th Howitzer Battery.

Recommendation: At Hargincourt on the morning of the 29th September 1918 this NCO was in charge of a gun which was situated in a very exposed position on the right flank of the battery. Soon after our Barrage opened a heavy counter-barrage was put down close to the Battery, two of Sgt Jane's detachment were casualties, but with great coolness and courage this NCO though short-handed, and under heavy shell-fire, continued to work his guns, so that although a difficult creeping barrage was being fired, not a round was missed and continuous fire maintained.

Shortly afterwards this NCO was himself severely wounded in the arm but still continued to work the gun, though weak and dazed, it was only on the receipt of a direct order from an officer that he would consent to leave his gun and hand over his barrage to another NCO. This NCO has set a conspicuous example of consummate coolness and courage, and displayed a very high devotion to duty in the face of most trying and dangerous circumstances.'

Recommendation: Whilst in the attack on Ville-Sur-Ancre near Albert on 19th May, 1918, he had charge of the advance party of his platoon in crossing a narrow bridge over the river. In the attack itself this NCO led his party in attacking a machine gun post, killing most of the crew and capturing the gun. Sgt White bayoneted one German in the operation. He then collected his party and brought them on to their objective with the greatest dash.

Later on he brought up a Lewis Gun to assist his Platoon Officer in mopping up a German position in a house in front of his Platoon's objective, using excellent judgement in placing the gun to cover the mopping-up operations. Next he went out in front to assist in selecting outposts under strong rifle-fire and succeeded in gaining contact across the front of the village with a flank Battalion. Throughout the operation he set a fine example of coolness, judgment and determination, which inspired his men throughout the whole day. (Certified that this NCO has not been recommended for the King's Birthday List, June 1918.) signed, C.Rosenthal, Brig-Gen, Commanding 2nd Aust Div.

Frederick Walter Howell jnr, born 23Dec1919 at Paddington, Sydney, NSW; in 1933 he was enrolled as a student at Sydney Technical High School; 06Mar1936 appointed as cadet in NSW Police; served at No.5 and 7 Divisions, at the C.I.B. and at Wollongong; 06Jul1939 he was drafted out as Medically Unfit; Enlisted in 1939 in AIF and later effected a transfer to RANR on 07Jan1941; Mar1941 he was sent to England for special training and then assigned to Royal Navy destroyer HMS Cossack; KIA 23Oct1941 at age 21 when HMS Cossack, was torpedoed; his father said that in his son's very last letter, dated 23 August 1941, he described the Cossack as a first-class ship with a tip-top crew and added that 'life was grand'. This letter arrived just a few days before the family received a telegram from the Navy Office on November 5 advising that he had been killed.; F.W.Howell is recorded on the Roll of Honour at Homebush and at the Australian War Memorial. Fred Howell jnr was a junior member of the East Sydney Amateur Swimming Club and represented in District Competitions as well as representing his school and later the Police Department in swimming competitions. He also represented his ship in aquatic sports during on shore training.

HMS Cossack, the most famous destroyer of WWII, gained fame in February 1940 as she was the ship which rescued many sailors of all nationalities, mostly British, from the Nazi prison-ship 'Altmark'. Cossack was also involved in the Second Battle of Narvik. On 23 October 1941 while escorting a convoy from Gibraltar to England she was torpedoed by U-boat U-563 (under command of Klaus Heinrich Bargsten). The front of the ship was almost completely destroyed and the captain and 158 officers and men out of a crew of 219 were killed and another 29 injured. An attempt was made to tow the ship back for repairs but she sank in heavy seas four days later.

Recommendation: East of Ypres, both during operations of the 4/5th and 12/13th Octr. 1917, this Officer stood out conspicuously on account of his absolute indifference to danger and of his leadership.

On the 4th when he and his Battalion had reached their objective he personally supervised the digging in and re-organisation. He then remained in the shell holes with his men - his cheerfulness and high spirits having a wonderful effect in keeping up their courage and spirits. On the 12th his Battalion was in Reserve but was quickly absorbed as reinforcements owing to very heavy casualties. The various units had become mixed up and many Officers had become casualties so that it needed vigorous action by a senior Officer on the spot to re-organise. This task was carried out admirably by Lt. Col. Henderson in spite of the great difficulty due to marshy nature of the ground and to the heavy enemy shell fire and perfect hail of machine gun bullets which were enfilading the position. His example was a great incentive to all troops not only of his unit but of other units.

Robert Oswald Henderson, merchant (The Beehive Bendigo), age 41, born at Bendigo, Vic; Enl.23Feb1916 at Campbellfield, Vic, while still serving as a commissioned officer (16May1899) in the CMF (67th Bendigo Infy); apptd Major 01May1916 in 38Bn; Emb.20Jun1916; promoted to Lt-Col and CO 39Bn 15Feb1917; WIA 29Mar1918, GSW thumb, France; KIA 29Sep1918 at Bony-Le Catelet on the Hindenburg Line. 'At 11am Lt-Col R.O.Henderson, DSO, who had gone forward towards Gillemont farm ruins, was shot through the head by an enemy sniper and killed instantly.' (The History of the 39th Battalion, Australian Imperial Force, p235).

He was buried at St. Emilie British Cemetery, Ronsoy, by Chaplain Rev. W.A.Moore on 1st Oct 1918 and in 1930 re-buried at Templeux-Le-Guerard British Cemetery, Somme, France because the position of the St. Emilie British Cemetery conflicted with French Sanitary Laws.

In The History of the 39th Battalion Sir John Monash wrote: 'During practically the whole of its fighting career, the battalion was led by Lieut.-Colonel Henderson, D.S.O., and his death in action during what was practically the last operation in which it was engaged, meant for the battalion the loss of a gallant leader, beloved by all his men, and for me the loss of an old friend, who had, before the war, devoted long years to fitting himself for the crowning achievement of his life - to direct the efforts of this fine body of Australia's sons in the saving of Australia from foreign aggression.'

Police Review article, June 1918 reported as follows,'Ex PC Cook who left for the fighting zone 13 October 1916 is proud possessor of a Military Medal. It was during the Battle of Messines that Private Cook won the distinction. He was engaged on stretcher bearing work, and after being continuosly working for 3 days and nights from June 8 to 10, losing three of his company of stretcher bearers, Cookie kept going. Obtaining assistance where possible, he kept the lines clear of the wounded, having to work a good deal of the time by himself under heavy gun fire, though his arm was wounded. On October 13, 1917 he was wounded at Passchendaele, and was buried for one and a half hours. He was injured in the back, and his arm and fingers were broken. Eight hours after being wounded, he was trained to Calais, and then shipped to England. On becoming convalescent, he was presented by General Coburg with the Military Medal.'

Ptes F.Cook and G.McKay

Recommendation for French Medaille Militaire by CO of 44 Bn, AIF on 11Mar1918.'For conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty. On the night of the 11/3 October, Pte Cook was attached as stretcher bearer to 'A' Company. On the battalion being withdrawn from the line, preparatory to the 10 Brigade going over, Pte Cook obtained permission to remain in the line and attend to the wounded of the 10th Brigade. He remained within the front area for over 48 hours under intense hostile artillery fire, and was undoubtedly the means of saving at least 10 lives during that period. He organised stretcher parties throughout, and frequently went out himself under heavy fire to attend wounded. He was himself wounded during the first six hours, but refused to be evacuated. I consider his gallantry and devotion to duty worthy of the highest mention.'Not awarded.

The 44th Battalion Regimental History records Felix Cook's exploits as follows,'Private Cook - Superman!Private Cook MM was a superman. From October 4 to 23rd he laboured like a giant. His mates were killed; the casualty he carried on one occasion was killed, but Cook was untouched. After the Manchesters failed, Cook it was who went first in front of the outposts on his errand of mercy. Practically without a spell he worked day and night, and finally when the remnants of his Battalion were relieved, he approached the Adjutant and requested to be allowed to stay in with the Canadians, as there were still casualties not yet brought in. He was not ordered to come out, and stayed in, and two days later had his shoulder smashed by shell fire.

He was recommended for the VC and surely if ever a man earned one in this great war, that man was Private Cook. He did not even receive a bar to his Military Medal which had been won previously. Such inconsistencies in the bestowal of decorations frequently made the blood of the Diggers boil.'

MSM: LG 17/6/1918, p7178, posn 77; CAG 7/11/1918, p2114. Recommendation 4th March 1918, Immediate Award: On 9th October, 1917, Zonnebeke-Broodseinde Road was blocked by fallen timber and destroyed wagons. This NCO in charge of platoon cleared the road under continuous heavy fire enabling ammunition mules to go forward. Later he was detailed to post and man 6 Lewis Guns for A.A. protection of our batteries rear of Zonnebeke. For 10 days he moved around incessantly. His guns brought down one enemy plane officially recorded and appreciably checked the enterprise of enemy airmen.

Citation: In recognition of valuable services rendered with the forces in France.

MM: Recommendation jointly with Sgt S.J.McCullogh and Pte J.R.Splatt.'On the night of 16th December 1916 a British Bombing Raid took place to which the enemy replied with heavy shell fire.

C Company were working in a communication sap to front line and were not informed of the raid. Hence they were out in it all. Sgt McCullagh & Pte Splatt were with their platoon under heavy fire and three of their comrades were buried by a shell exploding in their trench. Not knowing that they were dead, their officers decided to dig them out and the above mentioned men endeavoured to do so but failed, but showed great gallantry and gave a fine example to the platoon.

The previous evening a member of 28th Battalion was deserted by his comrades, and Pte Splatt stayed with him and he and Private Cross (under exceptionally heavy fire), dug the man out and Pte Splatt carried him through 800 yards of trench, which had two feet of water in the bottom. It was a fine example of courage and comradeship.'

Although none of the above three men were awarded the MM, Sgt McCullagh and Pte Splatt were both Mentioned in Despatches, Pte Cross was not.

MID: Recommendation 15 May 1917.'In operations 3-7 May, accompanied his officer acting as messenger and assisting to lay out tracing tapes. Nearly all his work was under enemy observation and fire, and he conducted himself with marked courage and ability.'Not awarded.

For the Bartolomeo Colleoni action, there were six DSMs awarded as follows, Chief Petty Officer A.P.Prior, Chief Petty Officer S.G.Silk, Chief Ordnance Artificer W.J.Keane, Chief Stoker J.N.Beaumont, Able Seaman G.Rosevear, Stoker E.Evans.

Geoffrey Rosevear, born 03Jan1911 at Launceston, Tasmania; Enl.12Feb1929; Home Port of Melbourne, Vic; KIA 20Nov1941 in Indian Ocean on HMAS Sydney II; Geoffrey's brother, Lance, was also serving on the Sydney; Lance Rosevear, born at Don, Tasmania 24Mar1916; Enl.10Jun1935; Home Port Melbourne, Vic; KIA 20Nov1941 in Indian Ocean on HMAS Sydney II.

In The Examiner newspaper, March 19, 2008 the cousin of the Rosevear brothers was interviewed. She revealed that the boys' father was a merchant in Devonport and traded from a place right on the Esplanade opposite the wharf. The brothers had enjoyed a visit home to Tasmania before the fateful last voyage of the Sydney II. She said Geoffrey had moved to Sydney before the war. He was raised in Devonport but he married a girl named Eileen from Bondi and lived in Sydney. Lance married a girl named Olive from Scotland. After their visit home, they went back to the mainland on the old SS Taroona and caught the train to Sydney. Halfway between Melbourne and Sydney the train pulled up suddenly and all sailors were taken off. They went back to the ship and were never heard from again. After the loss of the brothers, their cousin said rules were implemented to ensure that in future brothers did not serve on the same ship in wartime.

HMAS Sydney II, on 18 July 1940, in company with the destroyer HMS Havoc, responded to an enemy report from HMS Hyperion and, sailing to meet the British destroyers, opened fire at 20,000 yards on two pursuing Italian cruisers, Bartolomeo Colleoni and Giovanni Delle Bande Nere. The Italians returned fire, turned away and made smoke and thus the action became a chase. Initially hits were scored on the 'Bande Nere'. In order to prevent the Italians rounding Cape Spada, Captain Collins of the Sydney directed that fire be concentrated on Bartolomeo Colleoni. Hits were being registered on her, still at long range but eventually she succumbed to the numerous hits and lost speed. She was down in the bows and on fire and so was left by Sydney for the destroyers to finish her off.

Sydney then pursued 'Bande Nere' but could not keep apace with the faster Italian cruiser and, with her ammunition virtually expended, abandoned the chase when the enemy was no longer visible. During the action, Sydney sustained only one hit, to her forward funnel, which did not affect her performance.

The attack group of six ships returned to Alexandria around 11:00 on 20 July after fending off several air attacks, one of which damaged HMS Havock, and were met by cheering from all ships in the harbour. For his actions, Captain Collins was appointed a Companion of the Order of the Bath, while other officers and sailors from the Sydney received three Distinguished Service Orders, a Distinguished Service Cross, six Distinguished Service Medals, and twelve Mentions in Despatches and Sydney was awarded the battle honour 'Spada 1940'.

Sydney returned to Australia in February 1941 to wide public acclaim for her Mediterranean campaign. She was met by the Governor-General and the Minister for the Navy, the Honourable William Hughes. The Premier of NSW and the City of Sydney Lord Mayor went on board and presented a plaque to the ship to commemorate the victory over the Bartolomeo Colleoni on behalf of the citizens of Sydney. The plaque was composed of two large cast medallions mounted on oak and was affixed to the gun housing of 'Y' turret below the sighting ports. Capt Collins then led a march of the ship's company through the streets of Sydney to the Town Hall for a civic reception. Thousands lined the route and school children were given the day off school so they too could join in the celebrations. At the civic reception each crew member was presented with a medallion, being a miniature version of that presented to the ship, namely the Bartolomeo Colleoni Medal. All medals were individually inscribed to each recipient.

Loss of HMAS Sydney II in the Indian Ocean with all hands on board.

On the afternoon of 19 November 1941, Sydney was off the coast of Western Australia, near Carnarvon, and heading south towards Fremantle. Around 15:55, the cruiser spotted a merchant ship on a northbound course, which quickly turned away from the coast at 14 knots (26 km/h; 16 mph). Sydney increased speed to 25 knots (46 km/h; 29 mph) and made to intercept. As she closed the gap, Sydney began to signal the unidentified merchantman, first by signal light, then after no reply was forthcoming and the distance between the two ships had decreased, by a combination of light and signal flag. The merchant ship hoisted her call sign, but as she was ahead and just port of Sydney, the flags were obscured by the funnel. A request from the cruiser that the merchant ship make her signal letters clear, which the signals officer did by lengthening the halyard and swinging the flags clear. The call sign was that of the Dutch ship Straat Malakka, but she was not on Sydney's list of ships meant to be in the area. Further flag signals were exchanged between the ships, with Sydney asking the Dutch ship's destination and cargo.

At 17:00, a distress signal was transmitted by Straat Malakka, indicating that she was being pursued by a merchant raider. Following this, Sydney pulled alongside the merchant ship from astern; pacing the merchantman on a parallel course, approximately 1,300 metres (4,300 ft) away. Sydney's main guns and port torpedo launcher were trained on the ship, while she sent the interior portion of Straat Malakka's secret call sign. Fifteen minutes later, at around 17:30, the merchantman had not replied, and Sydney sent a signal ordering her to show the secret call sign.

Straat Malakka had not replied because she was the German auxiliary cruiser Kormoran in disguise, and when asked to reveal a call sign the Germans did not know, they responded by decamouflaging and opened fire. Prompted by the raider's unveiling, Sydney also fired, but while her first salvo either missed or passed through Kormoran's upper superstructure with minimal damage, four of the raider's six shells inflicted heavy damage on Sydney. A battle ensued and eventually Sydney broke off and was seen limping off into the distance. At night a fire on board her was visible on the horizon and finally disappearing some time after midnight when she sank. The disabled Kormoran with fires below decks that could not be contained was scuttled for fear that mines in the hold and the gun magazines would explode.

American shipwreck hunter David Mearns first learned of the battle in 1996, and began to study it as a prelude to a search for the ships in 2001. Mearns, with the aid of other researchers, focused on primary sources, and came to the conclusion that the German accounts of the ships position were true. After attracting the interest of the RAN, Mearns entered into a partnership with HMAS Sydney Search, a not-for-profit company set up to administer and help fund an expedition to locate Sydney and Kormoran. After an extensive search Sydney was located on 17 March 2008 just after 11:00, only hours after Kormoran's discovery was made public. Sydney's wreck was located in the Indian Ocean 2,468 metres (8,097 ft) below sea level, 11.4 nautical miles (21.1km; 13.1 miles) south-east of the raider. The bow of the cruiser had broken off as the ship sank, and was located at the opposite end of a debris field stretching less than 500 metres (1,600 ft) north-west from the hull, which was sitting upright on the ocean floor. On discovery, both wrecks were placed under the protection of the Historic Shipwrecks Act 1976 and they were also placed on the Australian National Heritage List on 14 March 2011.

Geoffrey Herbert Brandon Slinn, born 16Nov1912 at Burwood, Sydney, NSW; Enl.20Jun1942; KIA 26/27Nov1944 with 138 Sqn.

On 10 & 11Sep1944 Flg Off Slinn's aircraft made the 1st daylight parachute drops of guns and ammunition supplies to the Belgian White Army (the Underground resistance). On 26/27Nov1944 Stirling Mk IV LK151 of No.138 Special Duty Sqn, No.3 Bomber Group was flying an SOE (Special Operation Executive) operation Tabledam 69 near Krengerup on Funen Island. The aircraft dropped 18 containers and left the drop zone. Nothing was heard of the aircraft after this and it was presumed crashed in the North Sea. No members of the crew were found. According to one theory the aircraft was brought down in the Little Belt by a JU88G however this was unable to be confirmed by the Danish Civil Defence.

William Edward Jillett, born 17Sep1923 at Launceston, Tasmania; served in WWII as Signaller on HML816, a submarine chaser attached to the RAN; post war he was employed with an architectural firm then opened his own practice; later he enlisted in Royal Aust Infy Corp and served in Korea with 3RAR 21Feb1951 - 24Apr1951; KIA 24Apr1951 in Korea at historic Battle of Kapyong.

By direction of the President, under the provisions of Executive Order 9396 (Sec I, WD Bul. 22, 1943) Superseding Executive Order 9075 (Sec III, WD Bul. 16, 1942) and pursuant to authority in AR 260-15, the following units are cited as public evidence of deserved honour and distinction.

3rd Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment, 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Company A, 72nd Heavy Tank Battalion (United States) are cited for extraordinary heroism and outstanding performance of combat duties in action against the armed enemy near Kapyong, Korea, on the 24 and 25 April 1951.

The enemy had broken through the main line of resistance and penetrated to the area north of Kapyong. The units listed above were deployed to stem the assault. The 3rd Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment, moved to the right flank of the sector and took up defensive positions north of the Pukham River. The 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, defended in the vicinity of Hill 677 on the left flank. Company A, 72nd Heavy Tank Battalion, supported all units to the full extent of its capacity and, in addition, kept the main roads open and assisted in evacuating the wounded. Troops from a retreating division passed through the sector which enabled enemy troops to infiltrate with the withdrawing forces.

The enemy attacked savagely under the clangour of bugles and trumpets. The forward elements were completely surrounded going through the first day and into the second. Again and again the enemy threw waves of troops at the gallant defenders, and many times succeeded in penetrating the outer defences, but each time the courageous, indomitable, and determined soldiers repulsed the fanatical attacks. Ammunition ran low and there was no time for food. Critical supplies were dropped by air to the encircled troops, and they stood their ground in resolute defiance of the enemy. With serene and indefatigable persistence, the gallant soldiers held their defensive positions and took heavy tolls of the enemy. In some instances when the enemy penetrated the defences, the commanders directed friendly artillery fire on their own positions in repelling the thrusts.

Toward the close of 25 April, the enemy break-through had been stopped. The seriousness of the break-through on the central front had been changed from defeat to victory by the gallant stand of these heroic and courageous soldiers. The 3rd Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment; 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry; and Company A, 72nd Heavy Tank Battalion, displayed such gallantry, determination, and espirit de corps in accomplishing their missions under extremely difficult and hazardous conditions as to set them apart and above other units participating in the campaign, and by their achievements they brought distinguished credit on themselves, their homelands, and all freedom-loving nations.

KCVO: LG 29/10/1957, p6271 - The Honourable Sir Percy Charles Spender, K.B.E., Q.C. (to be dated 20th October, 1957).

Sir Percy Claude Spender, KCVO, KBE, QC, (5 October 1897 - 3 May 1985), was an Australian politician, diplomat and jurist. He was born in Sydney, educated at Fort Street High School and later graduated in Law from the University of Sydney. He joined the Commonwealth Public Service in 1915, was admitted to the New South Wales Bar in 1923 and made a King's Counsel in 1935.

Spender was elected to the House of Representatives in 1937 as an Independent member for Warringah but soon after the election, he joined the government party, the United Australia Party, and although he held the seat until his resignation from federal politics in 1951, from 1944 he was a member of the Liberal Party.

Spender held a number of ministries in Robert Menzies' wartime government. He was Minister without portfolio assisting the Treasurer from April-November 1939, Vice-President of the Executive Council from January-March 1940, Treasurer until October 1940 and then Minister for the Army until the fall of Arthur Fadden's government in October 1941. He was also a member of the Economic Cabinet (1939-1940), War Cabinet (1939-1941) and the Advisory War Council (1940-1945).

Upon Menzies' return to power in 1949, Spender was made Minister for External Affairs (19 December 1949 - 26 April 1951) and Minister for External Territories. His greatest influence on Australian politics occurred during this period. He led Australian delegations to the British Commonwealth Conference in Colombo, Ceylon and to the Fifth Session of the United Nations General Assembly (of which he was the Vice-President).

At the conference in Colombo, he was instrumental in the development of the Colombo Plan (which had originally been known as the Spender Plan). He also played a large part in the signing of the ANZUS Pact and the San Francisco Peace Treaty (this was a Peace Treaty with Japan signed by 48 countries at San Francisco in 1951).

After leaving politics, Spender was appointed Australia's Ambassador to the United States (1951-58). He was the first Australian appointed to the International Court of Justice in The Hague (1958-1964) and was the Court's President 1964-67. He died in May 1985, aged 87.

Percy Spender was knighted in 1952 as a Knight Commander of the British Empire (KBE) and in 1957 was appointed a Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order (KCVO). In 1976 he was conferred a knighthood by the Italian Republic, namely the Order of Merit, that country's highest award. He also received ten honorary doctorates; however, a personal rift with Sir Robert Menzies prevented him from receiving the honour which he most desired, appointment to the Privy Council.

MC 'On the night after the action of 12th October near Eaucourt Uabbaye this medical officer personally took out a bearer party to bring in the wounded under very heavy shell and machine gun fire. He displayed great gallantry and coolness under extremely difficult conditions and it is mainly owing to his untiring exertions that so many wounded were brought in. From 10th to the 14th October he worked unceasingly and practically without sleep remaining behind after the regiment was relieved to help look after the wounded. His conduct and gallantry are beyond praise'.

MID LG 10.1.1917 'Captain T.Welsh and Captain M.B.Lawrie, S.A.M.C. Both these officers showed conspicuous coolness and bravery under very heavy shell and rifle fire, throughout the Battle. They never spared themselves however worn-out; ready at all times for any emergency, and carried out their orders with precision and thoroughness. The evacuation of wounded from Bernafay and Trone Woods under most nerve wracking conditions, in the earlier stages, and later on from Longueval and Delville Wood, through open country, called for courage of the first order. I have therefore no hesitation in recommending both of these officers for the Military Cross, I am attaching recommendation from O.C.Bearer Sub Section to me.
